Re: Comments on Guidelines for Voluntary Country of Origin Labeling Program

Dear Secretary Veneman:

I am the Seafood department manager for one of the stores in the Schnuck Markets, Inc. supermarket chain. As such, I am very concerned about the country of origin labeling guidelines that you issued.

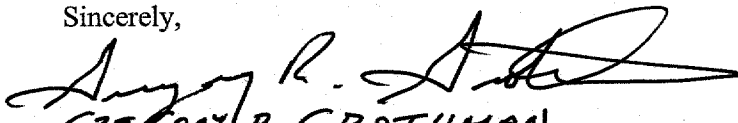

Our seafood department offers a wide variety of seafood products to consumers on a daily basis. The task of identifying the country or territorial waters in which each flesh or shell fish that we offer to consumers was caught or raised and processed is enormous. We must be able to depend on our suppliers for that information and you must hold them accountable through strict enforcement mechanisms. We cannot look at a shrimp and determine whether it was caught in U.S. territorial waters or in the waters of Thailand; nor can we tell whether the fish was farm-raised or wild caught and, if the latter, the flag that flew on the vessel that caught the fish. The operational challenges of labeling each of those items for retail sale on a daily basis are substantial.

As you develop the regulations, please consider the following:

- Hold suppliers back to those who raise or catch seafood accountable for providing accurate information on the countries in which each stage of production occurs;
- Provide for flexible means of informing consumers of the country of origin of seafood products at retail; and
- Implement reasonable recordkeeping requirements.

Please issue regulations that will allow us to continue to provide consumers with a fresh and abundant supply of seafood.

Sincerely,

GREGORY R. GROTHMAN
Seafood Department Manager

Re: Comments on Guidelines for Voluntary Country of Origin Labeling Program

Dear Secretary Veneman:

I am the produce department manager for one of the Schnuck Markets, Inc. supermarkets. As such, I am very concerned about the country of origin labeling guidelines that you issued.

Our produce department typically offers over 600 different types of fresh fruits and vegetables to consumers on a daily basis. Our produce is sourced from many countries throughout the world to ensure that consumers have high quality produce at an affordable price throughout the year. The task of identifying the country of origin as required by the law for all of these products is enormous. We cannot look at a bunch of grapes or a hand of bananas and identify the country of origin of the product. You must require our suppliers to provide us with that information and to implement systems – such as verifiable segregation plans – to ensure that the information that we receive is accurate; we must be able to rely on the information that our suppliers provide.

As you develop the regulations, please consider the following:

- Hold suppliers who are responsible for fresh fruits and vegetables at the growing, packing and processing stages accountable for providing accurate information on the countries in which each stage of production occurs;
- Provide for flexible means of informing consumers of the country of origin of fresh produce at retail; and
- Implement reasonable recordkeeping requirements.

Please issue regulations that will allow us to comply with the law without limiting our ability to continue to provide consumers with a fresh and abundant produce supply.

Sincerely,

Produce Department Manager
Schnuck Markets, Inc.
